

Annual Red Cross Supper Held Last Night

Dorchester Chapter, American Red Cross, held their annual Roll Call supper last night. The group assembled at the Hotel Cambridge with about seventy officers and workers in attendance.

After the supper, Mr. Francis Vincent, who served as Supper Chairman, presented Dr. Robert Weyand, Chairman of Dorchester Chapter. The purpose of the supper, Dr. Weyand stated, was two-fold: to express appreciation of those who have served the Chapter in past years and to emphasize needs of the Red Cross for the present Roll Call. His remarks included the fact that Chapter work has brought increased membership each year, starting from 257 members in 1934 to 1107 last year. These figures gave Dorchester the record of the best Roll Call in proportion to population on the Eastern Shore.

Mr. Gordon Stone, Field Representative, American National Red Cross, was then presented and ably portrayed the work done nationally, the likelihood of greater needs, due to the war situation in Europe, and concluded by commending the loyal work of the people of Dorchester county.

Mrs. Evelyn Adams Smith, Roll Call Chairman, outlined the program of the Drive for this year and stated that with the support and faithful work of each of the workers, this year's goal of 1500 members could be reached.

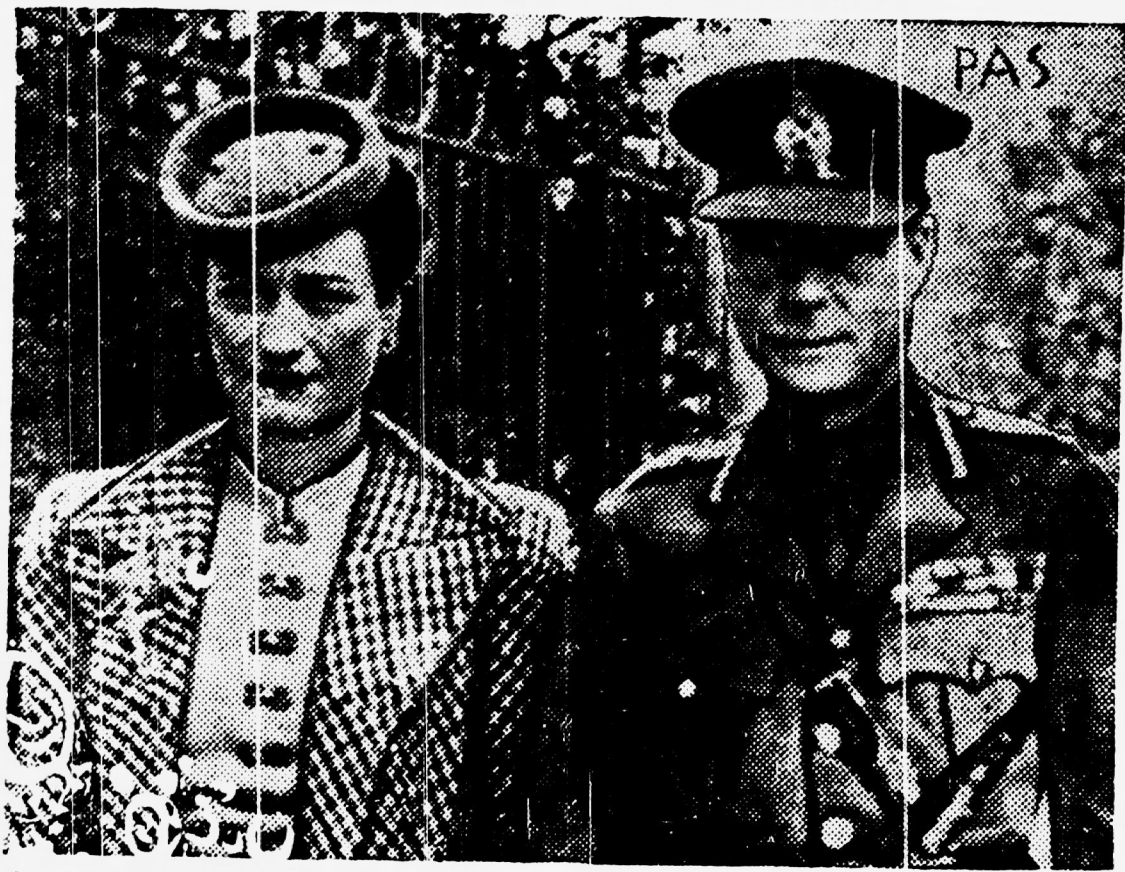

Senator George Radcliffe attended during the early part of the program and presented the case of the Red Cross as one organization knowing no creed or color. Nationally and Universally accepted as an organization worthy of the support of all.

Shore Area Shows Wet Complexion

A "wet" complexion is creeping over Maryland's Eastern Shore counties—traditional bulwark of prohibition only a few years ago.

The nine counties have 497 taverns, most of them selling only beer, the State License Bureau figures show.

Caroline is the "driest" with twenty-nine—one for every 599 inhabitants. Caroline and Dorchester counties both prohibit the sale of liquor.

Forty-three taverns in Cecil, Kent and Talbot counties are licensed to sell liquor, while Worcester, Somerset, Wicomico and Queen Anne's have county dispensary systems.

Licensed taverns by counties: Cecil, 102; Worcester, 84; Wicomico, 57; Talbot, 56; Kent, 51; Dorchester, 48; Somerset, 36; Queen Anne's 34; and Caroline 29.

YACHT CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION HERE

of the club attended the meeting with more than ninety participating in the balloting. Although the annual election in the past has been held in January, it was changed this year on the advice of the Board to November, in order that the term of its officers might conform with the term of officers of the American Power Boat Association. After the business meeting was completed, the club entertained its members at an oyster roast.

MERRILL GRAVENOR

Funeral services were held at 2 P. M. Tuesday for Merrill Gravenor, 21, of Galestown, who was killed early this week when an auto crashed through the Nanticoke river bridge railing, and overturned in the water. The driver, William W. Collier, 19, of Galestown, and Gravenor's sister, Margaret, 17, suffered cuts and bruises.

The car was partly submerged and had it not been low tide, the other two occupants might have drowned, police said. Gravenor died instantly when a piece of iron railing was driven through the car.

The three were driving to their home in Galestown, Dorchester county. Firemen and an ambulance were summoned by Holland Phillips, bridge tender.

Gravenor is survived by his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Gravenor, Short of Galestown, where the funeral was held. His father, Mrs. Maryland Gravenor of Sharpstown.

another sister, and several half brothers and sisters. He was a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Winnie Brinsfield, Galestown, and Mrs. Maryland Gravenor of Sharpstown.
